The Evolutionary
Theory of Attachment –
John Bowlby, 1969

(Description, AO1):

Bowlby's theory (1969)
is an evolutionary theory. He proposed infants form an attachment to a caregiver because attachment is adaptive (aids survival).

Attachment is seen as a biological process

because he argues
infants are born with an
'attachment gene' that programmes them to exhibit innate behaviours called '
social releasers' which increase their chances of receiving care such as clinging, crying ...

Bowlby (1958)

proposed that attachment can be understood within an evolutionary context in that the caregiver provides safety and security for the infant.

Attachment is adaptive as it enhances the infant's chance of survival. This is illustrated in the work of
