The Soul ' s Upward Yearning: Clues to Our Transcendent Nature from Experience and Reason. Robert J. Spitzer. Since the early twentieth century, scientific materialism has so undermined our belief in the human capacity for transcendence that many people find it difficult to believe in God and the human soul. The materialist perspective has not only cast its spell on the natural sciences, psychology, philosophy, and literature, it has also enthralled popular culture, which offers very little ...

Since the early twentieth century, “ scientific materialism ” has so undermined our belief in the human capacity for transcendence that many people find it difficult to believe in God and the human soul. The many signs of the widespread loss of confidence in our ability to soar upward were validated in 2004 by a study published in the American Journal of Psychiatry that linked the absence of religion with a marked increase in suicide, meaninglessness ...

contemporary evidence for God and a transphysical soul from several major sources. It shows that we are transcendent beings with souls capable of surviving bodily death; that we are self-reflective beings aware of and able to strive toward perfect truth, love, goodness, and beauty; that we have the dignity of being created in the very image of God.

Soul's Upward Yearning: Clues to Our Transcendent Nature ...

The Soul's Upward Yearning offsets today's continuation of original sin. Youths especially have been vulnerable to replacing ancient secrets with contemporary selfishness and superficial quick-fixes for everything. The loss of the transcendentals parallels the loss of the Ten Commandments.
